News from the Cauca.

By the stosmer Anne we have received the intelligence that Arboleda was, at last accounts, at Piedra Aucra, a mountain between Barbacoas and Tuceras, with his forces, about two or three hundred men. He had sent Captain Galis to Panama, to secure troops for his assistance, and a vessel was to be sent up from Tumaco to convey them.

asistance, and a convey them.

Colonel Perez had again attacked Pasto. His forces are colonel Perez had again attacked Pasto.

said to have increased, and are well supplied with arms and munitions.

The port of Buenaventura was blockaded.
The following details are given of a victory gained by General Gutierez over the government forces, under command of Sr. Canal and General Arjous.
Gutierez was attacked in Tunja by the united forces of Canal and Arjous. The fighting commenced on the 4th inst. and lasted until the 6th, when Gutierez was declared victorious. He had 1,800 men. The government forces are said to have lost 400 men killed, among them Leonado Canal, 600 prisoners and a large amount of artiflery. Arjous escaped with eighty men, more or less.

Senor Calvo has been named Designado by the Congress at Bogota, and is now acting as President of the republic. Captain Clapp had been arrested at Aspinwall on a supposition that he might be engaged by the revolutionary party. He was released on the demand of the United States Consul.

IMPORTANT FROM CAIRO.

Interview Between the Commander of the Kentucky Forces and Colonel Prentiss-The Troops at Cairo Prepared to Repe

OUR HARRISBURG CORRESPONDENCE.

HARRIMBURG, May 11, 1861.
of Affairs in Tennessee-Four Thousand Troops at Memphis-Facilities for Moving Troops by Railroad-the Rebels Supplied with Five Ten-inch Columbiads-Fifteen Thousand Five Hundred Men to be Collected at Columbus-Masked Batteries to be Erected for the Columbiads Opposite Cairo, de. de.

I send you the following full and complete information concerning the state and condition of the forces which are advancing to attack Caire. My information is derived from an intelligent railroad man who has live for many years in Tennessee. They offered him a position in the Confederate army, which he most respectfully declined. In consequence of such declination upon his part his fidelity was suspected and he decamed it prudent to leave the country.

Memphis, as you know, is the basis of operations. At that point there are 4,000 men. Upon the Mississippi river, on the Arkansas side, there are two fort erected, with pieces mounted, which sweep the river. The names of these two forts are Harris and Randolph

Harris is the lower and Randolph the upper.

There is, however, a railroad leading along the Tennes Columbus, in Kentucky, twenty miles south of Cairo. On this road, six miles north of Memphis, there is a camp, at which there are 1,500 men, and another aftern mile north upon the same road, in which there are 2,000 men At Memphis there are pleaty of cars to convey thes troops north to Columbus. By locking at a railroad map you will perceive that a

By locking at a railroad map you will perceive that a railroad leads from Memphis to Corinth, and from the latter point a railroad runs northeastward also to Columbus. Upon the road between Memphis and Corinth there is a station known as the Grant Junction. From this point, also leading eastward, there is a road which tage the road leading from Cerinth to Columbus, at a town called Humboldt. If, therefore, your readers will take the trouble of drawing a diagram upon paper, they will understand at once the whole state of the case.

At Grand Junction on last Wednesday there were 3,000 men, having sixteen railroad cars and two locomotives; at Corinth, 5,000 men and fifty cars, with the same number of locomotives. On the road between Corinth and Humboldt my informant saw standing upon cars switched off two ten-inch columbiads, with an abundance of shot and shell to serve them.

When he passed through Humboldt there had not, as yet, any soldiers reached that point. The purpose of the secentionists is to concentrate all those forces—total 15,500—at Columbus, and construct a military road through the dense forcest lying along the Kentucky shore of the Missiscippl, out of sight of the river. They say their engineers can cordurey and bridge the swamps, so that they can entry their forces in sufficient numbers to a point directly opposite Cairo, and erect batteries upon which they can entry their forces in sufficient numbers to a point directly opposite Cairo, and erect batteries upon which they can entry their forces in sufficient numbers to a point directly opposite for and a mile to a mile farther, both shot and shell, than any gun General Swift has. The battery upon which they will be mounted will be erected under cover of the forest ere the trees standing between it and the river are felled. Thus, the position and rarge of the battery will not be discovered until the moment it opens. If, therefore, the range of these guns proves greater than any artillery in possession of General Swift, 50,000 men could not defend C

I will write you from Camp York to-morrow. A for-eard movement from that point is expected hourly. THE INTERVIEW BETWEEN COLONEL TILGHMAN AND

Colonel Lleyd Tilghman, commanding the Western division of Kentucky militia, including Paducah and Columbus, places that have been considered as menacing our troops bere, called, in company with Colonal Wickliffe, of Kentucky, upon Colonel Prentiss, commandant at this place. The following is the substance of their interview. It is important—

Colonel TRIGIMAN—I have visited you, sir, for the purpose of a little efficial intercourse with reference to the late questions which have excited the people of Kentucky, and to cultivate, as far as in my power, peaceful relations. Some portions of the public press have erroneously used the name of Kentucky, the name of her organized militia under my command, and my own name, in referring to the hostile movement of troops against you from Tennessee. [Colonel Tlighman referred to an article in the Louisville Journal, which stated the hostile movements from Tennessee could go through Kentucky only by the aid of troops under Colonel Tlighman's command. He hardeterized the statement in severe terms, and said that Kentucky was still in the Union, and had no stronger with than to remain so.]

Colonel Proxyriss—I can hardly express, gentlemen, how gratifying it is to me to find these the sentiments of all the leading men I have met from your side of the river. I agsure you that, so far as I understand the sentiments of my State, my command and myself, these friendly feelings are cordially reciprocated. We must, however, when we understand that certain points in either Kentucky, Tennessee or Missouri, are menacing us, prepare to defend them.

Colonel PRENUES—Then I have been misinformed. Generally there would be no detention of munitiens of war destined to the authorities of Kentucky.

Colonel THEMMAN—The position I wish to assume is, that Kentucky is the poor of lilinois, and would not consent to anything of the kind, under any pretence. Kentucky probably would never consent to the blockadie of the Ohio.

Cot. Affairs must be managed on both sides with calmness. I think there is hardly a man in a hundred in the State of Kentucky but would fight for the old constitution as interpreted by the Supreme Court. I am highly gratified at this interview, and I hope to see yourself and staff over there some day.

FIRE IN SIXTH AVENUE -Between eight and nine o'clock last night a fire broke out in a frame building attached to the frame dwelling house No. 354 Sixtle attached to the frame dwelling house No. 354 Sixth avenue, corner of Twenty-second street. The flames spread rapidly up the weather boards, fred the roof, and before the firemen extinguished it burned off the roof and garret rooms. The first floor was occupied by Glaus Stimmerman as a grocery and figuor store. The second floor he occupied as a dwelling. The third floor was occupied by Mrs. Wood, and the garret story by two old ladies named Murphy. Mr. Stimmerman estimates his loss at about $400, incured for $900 in the New Amsterdam Insurance Company. The other families were not insured; their loss will amount to about $300. The building is owned by John B. Welsh, and is damaged about $400, suid to be not insured. There were three betrees in the stables, all get out in safety. The fire evidently originated in the shad used for the storage of straw, but how is a matter for the Fire Marshal to investigate.

UNITED STATES ARSENAL.

THE NEW GOVERNMENT ARSENAL AT ROCK

DAVENPORT, fowa, May 8, 1861. The Island of Rock Island-The New Location of the " Harper's Ferry" Arsenal, de.

It having been ordained by the powers at Washington that the United States Arsenal at Harper's Ferry be re-moved to Rock Island, I deem it not impertinent that your numerous readers be informed somewhat of its condition, as well as of the country in the immediate vicinity. The island of Rock Island is situated in the Mississippi river, 181 miles west of Chicago, and between the cities of Davenport, in Iowa, and Rock Island, in Illiaois; is about three miles long, and contains 900 acres of land, three-fourths of which is covered with a beautiful growth of oak, walnut, hickory, ash and elm timber of various sizes, mostly of sapling growth, however. In some portions the soil is adapted to farming, and is cultivated. A portion of it also is not arable, on account of the nearness to the surface of the limestone rock, which underlies the entire island.

Of this island about one hundred and sixty acres belong to Geo. L. Davenport, Esq., of this city, it having been purchased of government by his father, late government agent. On this there are improvements in the way of fences, buildings, &c. This purchase lies on the lows five acres, which were given by government to Mr. Sears in consideration of certain improvements made by him on the rapids. The balance of the tract belongs to dicular wall of limestone some twenty-five feet high, is the location of Fort Armstrong, a place of some notoriety during the Black Hawk war. It was built of hewn logs, in 1816, and was not evacuated by government troops until June, 1836. It was the headquarters of Gen. Scott in 1832, at the time he made the first treaty with the Indians, for the first lands purchased in Iowa. The remains of this once extreme Northwestern fortress consist of a few blockhouses, pierced for cannon and muskets, and the stone magazine. It is one of the most beautiful points in the United States. Indeed, I know of very few superior to it. Standing at that point, one gets a view of the entire city of Davenport, a place of 15,000 inhabitants; the city of Rock Island, with its 5,000 people, and a long range of noble bluffs on both the Iowa and Illinois sides, covered with beautiful groves, and dotted here and there with the elegant residences of the city people.

The main channel of the Mississippi is on the lowa side, and is spanned by the massive bridge of the Milwaukee and Mississippi Railroad Company, the track of which crosses the lower portion of the island and across the "slough bridge," as it is called, into the city of Rock Island. The eastern channel or "slough" was never navigable, and is dammed at the upper end of the island at Moline, affording an enormous water power, sufficient vigable, and is dammed at the upper end of the island at Moline, affording an enormous water power, sufficient to turn all the machinery in the State. Moline is a city of some 3,000 population, and is a busy manufacturing point, very much resembling those neat little manufacturing hamlets in New England. The dam alluded to belongs to a company of Syracuse men, I believe, and was partially carried away last week by the spring rise, but will be replaced soon.

This is not the first time this island has been looked upon as a point for establishing a military depot. In 1840 a commission, consisting of Colonel Long, of United States Topographical Engineers, General Armstead and Dr. Lassing, Surgeon General, visited the island with a view of establishing an armory. They left the matter in the hands of an engineer named Oglivic, who reported in full to the War Department, but since that time nothing has been done in regard to the matter. The principal objection was that communication was cut off for too long a period during the year. There was no railroad communication then as now. The objection has now disappeared. We have abundant railread communication, and prospect of more. The climate at this point is unsurpassed in the healthiest countries, and the natural facilities unbounded.

Eoth water and steam can be used as a motive power at comparatively small expense. The finest banks of bitumnious coal in the country are within a few miles, with which there is communication by rail.

There is certainly wisdom in the projected change, and we hope to see it consummated at no distant day. Much more of an interesting nature might be said concerning the matter; but let this suffice for the present.

THE GOVERNMENT ARSENAL AT ST. LOUIS. OUR ST. LOUIS CORRESPONDENCE.

UNITED STATES ARSENAL, Sr. LOUIS, May 8, 1861. The Way the Arzenal was Relieved and the Illinois Legis lature—Description of the Arsenal—Its Imprognability— Its Corrism—The Missouri Quota of Proops—The Hom. Guard—Swearing In and Arming of the Soldiers, do., do.

I desire to add to the copious reports in your pape-of military movements throughout the country, a word or two relating to the position of affairs in this most loya Union city. Our own slow going journals do not give what is transpiring about them in intelligible shape and papers in other cities have been grossly deceive! about our condition by a ridiculous account of the late removal of a large quantity of muskets, caonon and car tridges on the government chartered steamer City o' ricially feelings are cordially reciprocated. We must however, when we understand that certain points in either Kentucky, Tennessee or Missouri, are menacing us, prepare to defend them.

Coinel Thoman—Let me say, in deference to Tennessee that we far as her authorities and official acts are constituted for as the constitute of a say, in the days ago, in the Union. In work of removing the arms was done when the constitute of them, firstly, and official capacity is deference to the policy of my State. She has a most effectually, the policy of my State, that is hard to control. But I feel fully achieved to say, in deference to Governor Harris, with whom I had an interview, and in designating certain points se hostile and menacing. I am far from including the whole State. As to Memphis, I am reliably informed that bodies are arming and drilling with a proposed destination to some place North; and I will say to you frankly, that we are prepared for the attack, and await it. But I am inclined to think they are the mob, without official eucouragement.

Colenel Tristmax—Yes, sir, I feel authorized to express that view of it. The press ought to be reatrained in its ready circulation of errors. There is not a word of truth in the statement of there being 12,000 men at Paducah for invasion; or, as to the concentration of troops in any part of Kentucky, under my control. As to the recent arrival of arms at Columbus, they were the property of the State. This, as her right, Illinois cannot raise an objection to. Kentucky is large, and our people to kentucky is large, and our people to the control of Kentucky is large, and our people to continue that had been the system of eponage.

War. We are now electing our representatives to Congress, with the intention of holding out the olive branch. But the commerce of Kentucky is large, and our people to continue that had been the system of eponage. The control of Kentucky is large, and our people to continue that the control of the system of eponage.

Colonel Tristmax—Let me say, in lation, three millions of dollars, and it is now in such a car picto state of defence that all the sectessionists in Missouri could not take it, and would not dave attack it. At hearly all available points earthworks have been thrown up, and are mounted with columbiads and mortars. A buge new building, just outside of the main gate on Carondelet avenue, is occupied by two companies of regulars, who have constructed a strong earthwork, topped with sand bugs, and mounted with formidable piccos of ordinance. Other clevated positions, some of them a quarter of a mile from the Arsenal, are occupied by volunteers as outposts, and, if need be, will be entrenched and mounted with canon.

teers as outposts, and, if need be, will be entremended and mounted with cannon.

Gov. Jackson, you recollect, refused the President's requisition for volunteers, but more than Missouri's quota has been made up in this city, and are now under arms. Their organization is as follows:—

First regiment, Hon. F. P. Blair, Colonel... Second regiment, Henry Boernstein, Colonel. Third regiment, Franz Sigel, Colonel... Fourth regiment, Nicholas Schuttner, Colonel. Fifth regiment, now forming. Artillery corps, Major Schaefter. United States regulars, infantry and artillery.

The regiments of Colonels Almstedt and Kalliman marched into the Arrenal on yesterday, were sworm late government service, and received muskets from the commandant. Colonel McNell's wint down and received arms this afterneou, and Colonel Brown's came up to night with muskets on their shoulders. The last two are splendid regiments and composed of American citizens. The government has leased several large buildings in the city to serve as armories for the Rome Guard. They drill actively and are quite as proficient in discipline as the volunteers.

The total Union force under arms in St. Louis is 3 670 mee, and twenty four hours hence will be increased to 10.000. That is considered quite sufficient to keep the city in the Union, even if the State should seceds, which is not at all corsidered probabic.

Musical and Dramatic Matters.

In these days of war's alarms people do not care to patronize theatres. There is too much real living excitement surrounding us, like the encompassing air, to render it desirable to seek factitious excitement in opera, theatre, or concert hall. Even the May anniversaries, which used to be such a treat to our country cousins and to those straight-laced people to whom a theatre is a temple of iniquity and a dance an abomination-even they fail be fore the all absorbing power of the war feeling. It is not to be wendered at, therefore, that our Academies of Music, both in this city and Brooklyn, are closed for the present, that some of our theatres have followed their example, and that those which still remain open do so in face of most discouraging circumstances.

It is not so much that people have become pinched in pecuniary matters, as that they have lost all present taste for artificial excitements. Besides, there are comparative-ly few strangers in the city, and it is well known that from strangers our places of amusement have heretofore derived their chief support.

Then there are few families of position in society from which one or more members have not gone to take up arms in defence of the national existence, and their absence on such a hazardous mission naturally spreads gloom and anxiety over those who remain at he ndisposes them to lead a life of gayety and pleasure. Add to these causes of decline among the theatres the fact that many of our ladies of taste and fashion are de voting their time and money to the high duty of providing necessaries and luxuries for the soldier, both in camp and hospital, and there will be no surprise felt at the depressed condition of our places of amusement. The stage buskin has yielded to the high-low of the foot soldier, the music of the orchestra to the spirit stirring drum and ear piercing fife, and the stage procession to the hourly marching of our gallant citizens to the scene of war. Welcome the change, since its necessity was in

We have said that the Academy of Music is closed When it will be opened for an opera representation would be hard to say. Brignoli, Ferri, Susini and other artists are preparing to depart for Europe. The next troupe that occupies the Academy may be, not a company of Italian singers, but a regiment of American sol diers. Nevertheless little Ullman, with his characteristic indefatigability, is off to Europe to negotiate for an operatic and concert company, with which to operate between our cities and Havana. He must not offer extravagant salaries to his artists, or if he does we fear he will hardly be able to keep his engagement with them. These exacting and never-to-be-satisfied gentry must submit to the evils of war as well as more useful and industrious people, and consent to accept lower rates of remu-

Madame Anna Bishop is not disheartened either. She commences this evening a series of drawing room concerts at Stuyvesant Institute, No. 659 Broadway, and has, with good taste and appropriateness, made up a pro-gramme of national, patriotic and home ballads, which will draw good audiences if any entertainment can do so at this time.

Miss Hinkley, the fair and fascinating prima donna, who won such laurels here and in Brooklyn during the past season, also proposes to give a single concert at the Brocklyn Atheneum next Thursday evening, assisted by Brignoli, Ferri, Susini and Dohler, the violinist-all under the direction of Muzio.

There is nothing particularly novel in the theatres. Wallack's closed for the season last Saturday night. Niblo's had done so the week previous.

Jefferson, the irresistibly droll comedian, is performing at the Winter Garden, where he takes his benefit tonight. He has selected as one of the pieces for the occasion the capital buriesque of "Mazeppa, or the Fiery Untamed Rocking Horse." To those who have not seen him in the character of Mazeppa it will prove a rich treat.

At Laura Keene's the burletta of the "Seven Sisters" still holds its place, and will continue to do so for some time longer. Mr. Thomas Baker, who composed and arranged the music for this piece, takes his annual benefit en Wednesday evening.

The Brocklyn Philharmonic Society are to give, next

Saturday evening, a grand extra concert, in aid of the patriotic relief fund, at which all the associated artists are to appear. The house is to be splendidly decorated, and it is expected that the gallant Anderson will henor the occasion with his presence. One of the features of the entertainment will be the singing of a new patriotic song, written expressly for it by General Morris, the music being composed by Muzio. Although this is the first public announcement made of the project, we under-stand that from five to six hundred tickets have been already sold. Signorina Elena's concert at the Brooklyn Athensoum on Saturday evening last, was more fully and fashionably attended than could have been anticipated at a period o so much political excitement. This was due both to the character of the programme and to the list of perform ers, which comprised most of the vocal and instrumenta talent now in town. There was one disappointment—the non-appearance, through illness, of Susini ; but the pub lic bave become so accustomed to these contre temps on his part, that they now only excite a smile. olos on the piano by Mr. Pattison and on the flute by Mr. Koppitz gave unmixed satisfaction. Both perform ers developed rare executive skill and a perfect apprecia-tion of the resources of their instruments. The duo from the "Traviata," by Mile. Elena and Signor Brignoli, was deliciously given, the rich, full voice and splendid method of the former finding full expression in it. The cavatina "O Nici Fidi," from "Beatrice di Zeuda," one of the most beautiful morceaux in the whole Italian reportoire, formed an agreeable novelty in the rehash of hackneyed pieces to which we are but too generally treated at con-certs. It was sung by Mile Elena with a tenderness and depth of feeling which elicited the warmest ap In the "Una Voce," from the "Barbiere," with which she substituted the duo set down for her with Susini, she showed the perfection of her training by the precision with which she executed the chromatic pas sages and in the brilliancy of her forthers. The morceans sung by Miss Kellogg, the "O, luci di quest anima," and the bolero from the "Hallan Vespers," are performances too familiar to require any fresh notice. The same may be said of the 'Spirito Contil" of Brignoli, who was in admira ble voice, and disposed, as he always is, to exert himself to the utmost for the benefit of others. In the fantusia from "Massaniello" and in the duo from the "Somnambula," with Mr. Pattison, Mr. Appy zustained the reputation he has gained as the best performer in this country on the violin. "The Star Spangled Banner," sung con americ by Mile. Elepa, wound up a very delightful evening's performance. The only regret coupled with them was the reflection that we are so soon to lose the services of the fair beneficiaire, who quits us just as she has establighed herself firmly in the favor of our public. We understand that Brignoli has received tempting offers from St. Petersburg for the next operatic season. The handsome tener would leave many friends and inconsolables behind him-a reflection that may possibly loduce him to orego the inducements offered him

At the New Howery theatre the national speciacie compored by Mr. Charles Gayler, entitled " The Stars and Stripes; or, The Patriot's Dream," is having a rau. The other pieces for this evening are the operatio drama of "The Child of the Regiment" and the remantle drams of " The Death Token."

At the Chatham theatre they are preparing another pa triotic drama founded op recent events in Virginia. The three pieces approaced for this evening are. "The Miser of Catharine Fer; g," - Presty Poll of Petney" and the Irich Mornita."

Birpum's Moreum offers its usual attractions in th way of snimal, regetable, mineral and other curiosities, and also presents a Union drams entitled "Anderson, the Patriot Heart of Samter; or, the Heross of '61' in the way of African Opers we have Lloyd's excellent

Wednesday, the 22d. In the way of legerdemain we understand that one of the most brilliant masters of that magical art arrived here last week from Havana, where he had made a very successful engagement, and that he purposes giving ex hibitions of his skill here. We allude to Professor Her-mann. He is said to be superior to any of the profession al magic workers of the age, either in Europe or America. He has been decorated by the Queens of Spain and Portugal, and is an honorary member of the Paris Academy of Sciences.

from the Herald of this morning. I do not stop to in-quire what circumstances may have led to the destitution of his old age, but hasten, in some small degree, to his relief. If, as represented, he was one of the fathers o the country, and stood with them in the trials and triumphs of her revolutionary struggle for civil and religious liberty, its flag would wave, even to-day, more gracefully, if, as a nation, we had appropriated of it gracefully, if, as a nation, we had appropriated of it abundance amply for the support and comfort of him, and all such men. It would the better have manifested cur love of country in the days of her peace and prosperity. Please receive for the purpose suggested by your article the enclosed twenty-five dollars, and permit me to say, if further aid be needed from time to time, I will be happy to contribute as I may have ability. You will coaler a favor upon me by receiving this as from Cash, as I prefer not to be conspicuous.

Coroner's Inquest.

Coroner's Inquest.

Success.—Wm. W. Smith, a native of Yonkers, N. Y., fifty-two years of age, committed suicide on Saturday night, at his residence, No. 148 West Eighteenth street, by severing the arteries of his left arm with a razor. He was an intemperate man, and was laboring under an attack of delerium tremens at the time. He went home on Saturday night at a late hour, and immediately proceeded to his bedroom, where he perpetrated the rash act, and then called in his wife. Coroner Schirmer held an inquest upon the body. Deceased leaves a widow and a large family.

Personal Intelligence

A great sensation was created amongst the members of Henry Ward Beecher's congregation yesterday by the entrance of Mrs. Lincoln and party during the morning service. The attention of the congregation was about equally divided between listening to the sermon and gazing at the unexpected distinguished visiters, and at the close a tremendous rush for the door took place to
